Boyd Will Not Show Up Very Strong In It.

Is Credited With Having Less Than a Third of the Delegates.

Political interest now centers on the county convention which will be held the evening of Monday, September 14. That leaves but two weeks for the making of county slates and the breaking of them. And there is still a lack of candidates for the positions which listed for after lunch. the convention will have at its dis-

The indications now are, that the convention will be held in Progress hall. Senator Crabbe, as chairman of the Republican Central Committee, will probably call the convention to order. county central committee, but the chances are that nothing will be done for its organization before the convention day. Crabbe is talked of as chairman of the smaller committee as

The Boyd-Clark-Stewart combination is being given little consideration in the anti-convention talk. The overwhelming defeat of that faction in the seventh has put the Boyd crowd almost entirely out of the convention, though there is no telling what trades of support will bring out before September 14. Boyd has five delegates in has two or three in the third of the same district. The Kakaako district may also develop one or two delegates for him, though he has absolutely nothing to hope for in the second, sixth | similar capacity. and eighth. The fourth precinct also

In the fifth, the defeat of Stewart was a severe blow, but there is talk of trades by which Boyd will get some muster but little more than a third of the number of delegates to the convention, and all of them cannot be counted upon. Trading is what is likely to play the mischief in the convention. Another danger is in the lack of united support for some candidates scarcest for that office where the best men will be required.

The district of Ewa intends to come into the convention with a strong endorsement for J. A. Low for supervisor. Ewa precinct claims to be entitled to one of the supervisors at large, and a big fight will be made from the outside against having the entire seven supervisors picked from Honolulu. The Fifth is entitled to two men and the Fourth has the same number. other three supervisors to which Oahu is entitled can be taken from the county at large.

The Ewa precinct intends to make a hard fight for one of the supervisors. At the primary meeting Friday evening the delegation was instructed to work for the nomination of Jas. A. Low for supervisor. He is the first choice, and the second choice is Geo. Ashley, with John de Fries as the third man. Ewa claims to pay onefourth of the taxes on the island, and so says she is entitled to at least one-seventh of the representation. The delegares elected to the convention from Ewa are: Judge Hookano, George Ashley, McKeague, Nawaakoa, Frank Archer and Darcy. Senator Mc-Candless lost out at the primary elec-

In the Waialua precinct there was but one ticket-Archie Mahaulu, W. W. Goodale, Andrew Cox and Oscar Cox. There has been a good deal of discussion of the nominees for supervisors but few men have openly announced hemselves. For some of the other county offices there seems to be a well settled slate. A. M. Brown, it is conceded, will get the nomination for sheriff without opposition in the convention. Assessor J. W. Pratt has little or no opposition for the nomination for tax assessor. W. T. Rawlins is the only active candidate for county attorney, with Stewart out of the way, and the plum will probably fall into his lap. For treasurer, S. E. Damon can have the nomination if he wants it. He has not said he wanted it yet.

The biggest fight seems to be for the county clerkship. Wm. Savidge, who is the present Land Court Registrar is after the job, and so is Harry Murray of the Public Works office and H. C. Vida. The race will likely be a

What Convention Program and Officials Almost Identical With Conductor Witness Last Year--- Expenses Will Be Kept Down to the Limit.

> The chief interests of local rowing and yachting circles are now centered in making Regatta Day a success. While the Rowing Association is disappointed over not getting the baseball games postponed for that day, there is confidence of a big attendance as the day has always beco recognized as an Hawaiian holiday on the waterfront and the native portion of the population, at least, will not wander for from the How Jones Had Planned for Escape docks until the program is over.

The baseball men claim that the request could have been made with a great deal more force earlier in the season, as their schedule has been known since the start of the season. They claim also that the program of the regatta will be over by afternoon.

This statement is not entirely correct, as more events take place after lunch than before. The return of the yachts, which will finish off prison walls are concerned. He is still the judge's stand, is always a pretty sight and the finish cannot possibly occur until the mid-afternoon. Two important rowing events are also

The crowd will probably split after lunch but the regatta committee is hopeful that the determination of the baseball men to play will make no difference in the collection of subscriptions from the merchants. The committee has already retrenched on many of the expenses which have heretofore been deemed essential. One thousand dollars will carry the committee through ail its plans and from the list of former years there should be no difficulty in securing this amount.

Last year, it will be remembered, the committee secured the houseboat of H. N. Almy as the headquarters for the officials and a similar of Jallor Henry, comparatively a free arrangement was made for this year. The wreck of the craft during man, This was on Saturday afternoon transportation upset these plans and a return to the old scheme of fitting up a scow seemed to be the only resource. A bright idea occurred to Mr. Parke, resulting in the chartering of one of the Inter-Island steamers which will be in port that day. This will be secured at a saving and will be anchored in the usual position making a very acceptable official

Allan Dunn of the Hawaii Yacht Club agreed upon the non-necessity of the chartering of a steamer to follow the vacht races and another expense is deducted on that account. Launches are to be hired for the use of the starters and judges.

With one or two exceptions the officials for this year will be the same as last, the program having gone off very smoothly and close on schedule time under their management. L. de L. Ward, who started the Fourth of July races at Pearl Harbor this year, will officiate in a

Flags marking the rowing courses have been set out in the channel for the guidance of the crews who are support from Vida's crowd. The eighth now practicing assiduously. The Myrtles are determined to retrieve also gives him a few delegates. Taken their deleat at Pearl Harbor and, barring unlucky accidents, will enter altogether it is asserted that Boyd can the field in much better shape than in July. The Healanis are as equally determined to win and with their rivals are doing hard work to get in

The course for the yachts is practically the same as last year, starting off the lighthouse and finishing off the judges' stand. The eastward and westward terminals of the course will be set off the Kalihi entrance and opposite the Moana Hotel. This course will be sailed twice, for supervisor. The greatest shyness making a twenty mile sail under varying conditions. A diagram of the seems to exist in the race for super- course will appear in the Advertiser and reprinted in the program of the visor and the good condidates are day. In addition all the yachts will be numbered. Entries for all events must close two days before the regatta on September 17.

The tug-of-war between Japanese fishing boats will take place, not as formerly, near the judges' craft where the view was limited, but off the lighthouse, where it will be in plain view of the crowd.

The Myrtles will probably keep open house as last year and will be given a portion of the funds for that purpose. The Healanis will him to Kailua, Hawsh, where he once probably receive only members and friends at their own expense.

Prince David will sail his remodelled Vike, now a yawl, in the fourth class and a good fleet is expected. The events are all open and not I know the place too well." limited to members of the local clubs, although the Rowing Association and Hawaii Yacht Club rules will govern.

The Hawaii Yacht Club hold their last races of the season at the Peninsula on September 6. After this there is one more event, a roundthe-island race for the big boats, scheduled for September 25.

JONES'S PLAN.

When Jones told Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth the story of his frustrated plan of escape he stated to the sheriff that his original intention in crossing to the windward side of the island was to get over to Koolau.

Once there, with the few remaining cartridges in his revolver, he purposed holding up Captain Moses and forcing the skipper at the muzzle of the pistol to put sail on his schooner and convey lived in earlier days.

"Once in Kallua," said Jones to the sheriff, "you never would have got me,

Jones had no definite plan of action arranged with regard to landing from the schooner and went no further than the resolve to compel Captain Moses to do his bidding. As is known he failed to cross the range at all and starvation and exposure brought him
